

Capital City Airport (CXY) is a general aviation airport located four miles south of Harrisburg, roughly 40 miles north of the Maryland border. Located just minutes from the state's capital and major industrial and business centers, the airport supports considerable corporate and business travel from both private individuals and companies. The airport has several prominent business tenants who stimulate demand for the airport, which in turn contributes to the local economy. From its fixed-base operator, SkyPort Aviation, to its avionics installation and maintenance organization, Aircraft and Avionics Sales, Inc., the airport continues to capture aviation demand from the surrounding region. Additional prominent tenants include Cargill Aeronautical Academy, which conducts daily flight training operations. With major highway access in close proximity, visitors to the airport are just minutes from hotels, restaurants, shopping, breweries, and many other local attractions.

This airport is classified as a Advanced Airport in Pennsylvania's State Aviation System Plan and is eligible to receive federal funding from the FAA.
